

ABOUT MARINERS INN

“The Inn” has been providing residential substance abuse treatment to homeless men since 1955. The origins go back even further – to the 1840’s, when Mariners Church first opened it’s doors to Great Lakes sailors in need of shelter.

Today Mariners Inn is a leading treatment center, nationally acclaimed for its professional and compassionate approach to the problems of substance abuse and homelessness.

The Mariners Inn staff of over fifty employees is dedicated to preparing clients to lead productive lives and to avoid relapse. Well-equipped to provide effective alcohol and highway safety education, this nonprofit agency is able to offer court-mandated courses to the public at very competitive rates.

Mariners Inn is located at the corner of Cass and Ledyard, a block south of the Masonic Temple in Detroit’s Cass Corridor. The Inn is easy to reach by bus.
